

INTRODUCTION TO COMPUTATIONAL SOCIAL SCIENCE

SESSION 07

Today, we're going to talk about databases.

Databases are where data live and understanding them is essential to computational social science work.

Databases can be quite simple (one static table) or they can be extremely complex (thousands of tables updated every millisecond).

