IEMP MODEL

- No one network comes first or is more fundamental than the others. In other words, each one always has presupposed the existence of the others.
- However, this doesn't mean that these networks are usually equal in their importance: usually, one or two networks usually are more dominant than the others.
- One kind of organizational power can be turned into any one of the others. Economic power can be turned into political power. Religious power can generate military power. Military power can conquer political power.
