

What Is Linguistic Structuralism?

- Structuralism is a highly interdisciplinary intellectual movement that started in France in the 1950s with the works of Claude Levi-Strauss, Ferdinand de Saussure, and Ludwig Wittengstein.
- Structuralism argues that “things” must be understood in terms of the larger structures they are part of.

What Is Linguistic Structuralism?