

KANT AND THE ENLIGHTENMENT

- Enlightenment is man's leaving his self-caused immaturity.
- For Kant, we sign over our agency to avoid having to think and act for ourselves: it is often easier to be told what to do than to have to work it out for ourselves.
- We inevitably become enslaved to those whom we have made our "guardians."

KANT AND THE ENLIGHTENMENT

