

A photograph of a theater stage. A large, deep red curtain hangs across the stage, partially obscuring the view. Above the curtain, there is a decorative archway with ornate carvings and a row of small, square light fixtures. The stage is flanked by tall, classical columns. The overall lighting is dim, creating a dramatic atmosphere.

Erving Goffman

Erving GOFFMAN

