a hypothetical STATUS SET

beliefs and norms about being a child and obligations to parents daughter

beliefs and norms about education and school student

beliefs and norms about spouses

wife

worker

beliefs and norms about the workplace mother

church member

beliefs and norms about parenting beliefs and norms about religion and supernatural resident

citizen

beliefs and norms about community and neighbourhood

beliefs and norms about politics and government
ROLE STATUS

- Whenever we interact with others in their roles, we are part of a role-set.

- If you picture yourself at the center of a network, the line between you and each of your role-complements is a role-segment.

- For example: in my network, I am a son, a brother, a friend, a professor, etc.

a hypothetical STATUS SET

beliefs and norms about being a child and obligations to parents

beliefs and norms about education and school daughter    student

beliefs and norms about spouses

wife    worker    beliefs and norms about the workplace mother    church member

beliefs and norms about parenting

beliefs and norms about religion and supernatural

resident    citizen

beliefs and norms about community and neighbourhood

beliefs and norms about politics and government

ROLE STATUS

a hypothetical STATUS SET